TN Visa Transcript

Hello my name is Tony Ramos and I am an Immigration Attorney. I would like to discuss the most common non-immigrant business visas that we handle and the respective requirements for these visas.

I will be briefly discussing the TN Visa, which was created for professionals under the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) that was established for economic trade and commerce between Canada, Mexico and the United States.

Under this category qualifying professionals may enter the U.S. to work for a U.S. company or for a Canadian or Mexican company in the U.S. when those companies are engaged to work on projects with U.S. based companies.

For each respective country, the incoming NAFTA professional must:

1. be a citizen of the respective country of origin
2. intend to engage in employment in an approved profession and have an offer of employment (a “approved profession” includes but not limited to, accountant, architect, engineer, research assistant, chemist, college or university teacher, computer system analyst, economist, lawyer, management consultant, pharmacist, agriculturalist, veterinarian, and the like – you can visit our website for a complete list)
3. the NAFTA professional must also hold a bachelor's degree or higher which is generally required for all approved professions, and if the professions requires licensing, then proof of such will be required as well, and
4. have the intention to stay in the United States temporarily.

Some of the benefits to hold TN status are that:

1. the professional can apply for indefinite renewal,
2. have rapid processing time (unlike other non-immigrant categories)
3. dependents of NAFTA professionals are allowed to apply for TD status to enter the United States and are allowed to study here.

Our Laredo border is the major gateway to the North American Free Trade Agreement of international trade. With Laredo being one of the fastest growing cities in the country, we understand the demand for processing these type visas with great efficiency.

My office can help you handle the application process and the supporting documentation requirements for the petition, and we will ensure a seamless transaction.
